

JAMES HENRY

Photography

James Henry first got his passion for photography at high school working in the darkroom. Since then he has worked as a musician, actor, radio producer and events organiser. His main interest in photography lies in live music events and Aboriginal portraiture. He has also been facilitating photography workshops, passing on his knowledge and passion to the young and the elders.

This series of photographs was taken at the Australasian World Music Expo 2010 in Melbourne.
